The details provided must match our records. If the deceased had moved prior to their death but we had not been notified – for example, if they had moved into a nursing home but correspondence was still being sent to their family home – please confirm both their final and previous addresses above.

2. Action required

Please select the appropriate options below. Some guidance notes are provided below, but more details can be found in our guide What to do after a bereavement, including a glossary of terms.

If more than one option is required, please select accordingly. Space is provided overleaf to provide more detail. If you are unsure of which option(s) are appropriate, please seek advice from a financial advisor.

In specie transfer of an ISA holding to a surviving spouse or civil partner

Shares / units held within an ISA may be transferred to the deceased customer's spouse or civil partner as an Additional Permitted Subscription (APS), if the client died after 3 December 2014.

This is known as an in specie transfer. The spouse or civil partner will need to have inherited the investment and complete an APS application form, which can be found on our website along with a guide to APS.

By selecting this option you are consenting to the in specie transfer taking place.

Cash transfer of an ISA holding to a surviving spouse or civil partner

You may surrender the ISA and use the proceeds to invest into an ISA as an APS investment – for example, if the spouse or civil partner wishes to choose a different fund selection than originally held by the deceased.

The spouse or civil partner will need to complete an APS application form, which can be found on our website along with a guide to APS.

By selecting this option you are instructing the ISA to be surrendered for this purpose.

Stock transfer the holding to one or more beneficiaries

Shares / units may be transferred to one or more of the beneficiaries of the estate. A stock transfer form will need to be completed, for each person you are transferring to, unless it is a joint holding, and for each fund and product being transferred, in addition to this form.

A blank stock transfer form, along with a guide to help you complete it, can be found on our website or provided upon request.

Please note that transferring an ISA by means of a stock transfer form will remove the shares / units from the ISA, meaning the recipient will not hold the shares / units in an ISA.

Cash transfer the holding into an investment in the name of one or more beneficiaries

You may surrender the holding and use the proceeds to invest into a current tax year ISA in the name of a beneficiary, or a direct investment in the name(s) of (up to four) beneficiaries. In either case, each beneficiary who will hold the investment must be a UK resident.

An application form will need to be completed by the investors, which can be found on our website or provided upon request.

By selecting this you are instructing the holdings to be surrendered for this purpose. If the value of the holding is greater than the amount to be invested, this transfer will be placed as a partial surrender.

2. Action required (continued)

Sell the (remaining) holding

You can sell the holding and proceeds can be made payable in the name of either the estate, the personal representative, the executor(s) / administrator(s), or to the solicitors / accountants firm dealing with the estate.

If you have selected for holdings to be transferred above, and provided the necessary forms, only the remaining shares / units will be surrendered after those transactions have been completed.

We are able to make payment directly into a bank account, but will require bank verification evidence before we are able to do so. More details can be found in our guide – What to do after a bereavement.

For payment by cheque, please leave the account number and sort code fields blank.

If we hold client money for the deceased customer, we will arrange for this to be paid to the above details as well. Client money refers to any uninvested monies we may hold on behalf of the deceased, protected in a non-interest bearing client money account.

If you wish to know if we hold any such monies on behalf of the deceased, please contact us on 0800 051 2003. Choose option 1 from the first menu and listen to the further menu options. Choose option 4 from the second menu for our dedicated Bereavement line.
