Why now for investment grade?

A strategic allocation to investment grade bonds can offer investors diversification from equities and relatively low correlation to other asset classes.

1

Total return potential at a decade high

Investment grade corporate bonds potentially provide reliable higher income streams compared with safe-haven government bonds, which could cushion total returns should price movements remain volatile. Yields today are 3 times where they were 2 years ago and the HY/IG ratio is the lowest we have seen it in over a decade.

2

Resilience to downside growth risks

Corporate fundamentals remain in good shape, which should help investment grade companies to navigate a slowdown in growth. The majority of corporates have pushed out their maturity walls beyond 2026, providing some cover from increased rates.

3

Default risk remains low

The attractive yield delivered by the asset class largely stems from high quality issuers and is not being skewed higher by weaker credits on the verge of downgrade into the high yield market.

4

Opportunities for active management

2022 created a large spread dispersion within investment grade credit. The divergence between sector and stock returns (and within sectors) are all favourable signals for alpha hunters.

Our approach to investment grade credit investing

Our unique approach to portfolio construction helps capture the asset class benefits and deliver consistent returns relative to the benchmark. We seek to achieve this with lower correlation to both the direction of credit markets and to peers, while still providing an element of downside protection in bear markets.

Portfolio construction

A disciplined portfolio construction process can be an independent source of alpha, uncorrelated to market returns, potentially leading to more consistent outperformance through the cycle with better downside protection.

Key features:

- Portfolio Optimisation
- Genuine alpha
- Customised sector framework
- Downside protection

Focused portfolio

The overriding driver of excess returns comes from stock selection. We manage concentrated portfolios of fewer issuers than our competitors to harness our expertise in fundamental credit analysis and our global team.

Key features:

- Concentrated, a bias to high quality
- Low correlation with peers
- Benchmark aware, not benchmark constrained

Connected thinking

Our team and processes are truly global, which allows us to allocate to the most attractive credit opportunities from issuers around the world.

Key features:

- Currency agnostic
- ESG considerations
- Beyond credit (collaboration with equities function)

A portfolio constructed for all seasons

Our investment philosophy:

We believe a consistent philosophy and approach leads to clear client outcomes

Longstanding team with access to a global credit research platform

Key risks

Investment risk & Currency risk

The value of an investment and any income from it can go down as well as up and can fluctuate in response to changes in currency and exchange rates. Investors may not get back the original amount invested.

Credit and interest rate risk

Bond values are affected by changes in interest rates and the bond issuer's creditworthiness. Bonds that offer the potential for a higher income typically have a greater risk of default.

Illiquid Securities Risk

Some investments could be hard to value or to sell at a desired time, or at a price considered to be fair (especially in large quantities). As a result their prices can be volatile.

Sustainability Risk

The level of sustainability risk may fluctuate depending on which investment opportunities the Investment Manager identifies. This means that the fund is exposed to Sustainability Risk which may impact the value of investments over the long term.
