REPORT OF THE AUTHORISED CORPORATE DIRECTOR

THE COMPANY

Aviva Investors Investment Funds ICVC ("the Company") is an Open-Ended Investment Company (OEIC) with variable capital incorporated in England and Wales on 9 September 1998. The property of the Company is entrusted to Citibank Europe plc, UK Branch ("the Depositary"). The shareholders are not liable for any debts of the Company.

The object of the Company is to invest the scheme property in transferable securities, money market instruments, units in collective investment schemes, deposits and derivatives and forward transactions in accordance with the COLL Sourcebook with the aim of spreading investment risk and giving its shareholders the benefit of the results of the management of that property.

The Company has an umbrella structure which means that it contains many sub-funds ("Funds"), each with a different investment objective. In the financial statements you will find an investment review for each Fund which includes details of the investment objectives. There are currently 18 Funds in the Aviva Investors Investment Funds ICVC.

REMUNERATION POLICY

In line with the requirements of the Undertakings for Collective Investment in Transferable Securities Directive V ("UCITS V"), the ACD is subject to a remuneration policy which is consistent with the principles outlined in the European Securities and Markets Authority guidelines on sound remuneration policies under the UCITS Directive.

Aviva Investors' remuneration framework is based on a total reward approach and is designed to reflect the success or failure against a range of personal and company performance objectives. There are four components of pay: base salary; annual bonus (including deferred bonus); long term incentive plan; and benefits. Aviva believes in rewarding strong performance and the achievement of our business and individual goals; however, the manner in which these goals are achieved is also an important factor in determining outcomes. Annual bonus awards are discretionary and where bonuses are £75,000 and over a 3 year deferral with pro-rata vesting in Aviva Investors funds and/or Aviva Group plc shares occurs.

The extent to which each aspect of performance affects the overall payment level depends on the role and responsibilities of the individual. Performance is measured against personal objectives, including Risk and Control objectives, as well as Aviva Investors' and the business unit performance against agreed targets. A combination of individual, business unit, Aviva Investors and Group performance over an appropriate period.

- The financial considerations includes the following comparisons:-
 - Actual results vs. prior period results
 - Actual results vs. agreed plans
 - Actual results relative to competitors
 - Actual results vs., and progress towards, our long-term target ambition.

- The non-financial considerations include risk, conduct, culture, customer and employee engagement metrics, with Aviva values clearly underpinning all our decisions. In certain roles, adherence to Responsible Investment and ESG principles will also be a consideration.
- The Performance assessment does not encourage risk taking outside the Aviva Investors stated risk appetite, and includes mechanisms by which performance against risk and conduct related measures has a significant impact on the availability and size of business and individual variable awards.

The remuneration policies are designed to ensure that any relevant conflicts of interest can be managed appropriately at all times and that the remuneration of its senior staff is in line with the risk policies and objectives of the UCITS funds it manages, and takes into account the promotion of sound and effective risk management and the achievement of fair outcomes for all customers.

The ACD has no employees but is a wholly owned subsidiary of Aviva Investors Holdings Limited. For the year to 31 December 2017, apportioned remuneration based on the time assessed to be spent on the ACD UCITS activity paid by Aviva Plc, the ultimate parent of the ACD, to its senior management team, and staff whose actions have a material impact on the risk profile of the ACD ("Code staff"), is as follows:

	Senior Management	Other Code Staff
Total Remuneration:	£0.4m	£0.2m
Of which, Fixed Remuneration:	35%	56%
Variable Remuneration:	58%	30%
Pension/Benefits:	7%	14%
Number of Code staff:	11	11

SIGNIFICANT INFORMATION

On 19 December 2017, the ACD launched a new sub-fund of the Company, the Aviva Investors Global Equity Endurance Fund.

On 11 May 2018, the Prospectus was amended to include wording setting out for investors the circumstances in which unclaimed client money will be paid to charity in accordance with the FCA's rules.

On 4 June 2018, we made a number of changes to our entire fund range, including the Funds of the Company. This resulted in us replacing a variety of separate fees, costs and expenses of operating and administering our funds with a simple single fee called the "Fund Management Fee" or "FMF". In connection with this, we also lowered fees on a large number of our funds and reduced entry charges to zero on all but one of our funds. We also renamed certain share classes of certain funds and closed other share classes and moved any investors into an alternative share class of the same fund. The review of a Fund notes if it was affected by such a share class merger or renaming.

MANAGER'S MARKET REVIEW

EQUITIES MARKET REVIEW

Global equities, as measured by the MSCI World Index, fell by 2.7 per cent in sterling terms in the six months to 15 April 2018. Stock market losses were concentrated in February and March when investors became nervous about higher bond yields, rising inflation expectations and the possibility that President Trump's imposition of high import tariffs would escalate into a trade war with China, the European Union and other countries. The weakest area of global markets was the technology sector as a scandal over the alleged misuse of personal data by Facebook caused the share prices of major technology names to trade sharply lower. Energy-related stocks were on a firmer footing, however, as the oil price rose following production cuts and worries about renewed sanctions against Iran. The economic backdrop continued to be supportive of equities, with the momentum of global growth remaining encouraging. There were, however, signs of a slight slowdown in the US, which was in part a consequence of seasonal factors and a severe winter. Europe saw a fall in economic activity indicators, which led the FTSE® AW Europe ex-UK Index to underperform the global average with a return of -5.6 per cent. Markets were also buffeted by a rise in political concerns as North Korea engaged in provocative nuclear missile testing. However, a subsequent thawing of tensions helped shares end the period on a more settled note.

FIXED INCOME – CORPORATE AND HIGH YIELD BONDS

Fixed income markets posted negative returns in the six months in review as concerns grew that interest rates around the world were on the way up in response to improving economic growth and a general desire by central banks to normalise monetary policies. While the European Central Bank indicated that it was unwilling to wind down its support too quickly given below-target inflation in the Eurozone, the Bank of England and the US Federal Reserve both hinted that interest rates could rise at a faster pace than investors were expecting. Although January saw a sharp sell-off, markets were nevertheless able to recoup a good proportion of their losses as investors sought safe investment havens on fears about global trade wars. Corporate bonds were volatile over the period given the fluctuations in the underlying government bond markets. Excess returns over government bonds were healthy until the sell-off in equities, when worries about company profits saw them fall into negative territory. There were also indications that investor demand for corporate debt was starting to wane as a higher interest rate environment beckoned.

FUND MANAGER'S REPORT

On 4 June 2018, share class A of this Fund was closed and merged into share class 1.

PERFORMANCE

Over the six months ended 15 April 2018, the Fund delivered a total return of -2.94 per cent (share class 1), net of fees, compared with an average return of -1.59 per cent for its peer group the Investment Association UK All Companies sector. The FTSE® All-Share Index, the Fund's benchmark, returned -1.64 per cent.

REVIEW

After strong performance from global stock markets last year particularly into the year end, the extended period of low volatility came to an abrupt end in February 2018 and equities sold off globally. There were potentially several factors that impacted sentiment including extended valuation metrics in the US, concern over the speed at which the Federal Reserve will hike interest rates given how robust US economic data has been, and protectionist developments between the US and China. There was also a marked sell-off in bond markets on the back of the notable move higher in inflation expectations as a result of a rise in the oil price and upside surprises on monthly inflation data. Importantly though, there were no major changes in favourable macroeconomic conditions and the outlook for synchronised global growth remains intact.

Whilst UK growth expectations are not being revised upwards, GDP growth of 1.4 per cent in 2017 looks attainable in the context of political uncertainty and ongoing Brexit negotiations. Moreover, sterling has maintained an upward trajectory and against some major currencies is back at or close to pre-referendum levels. This has meant the more domestically exposed FTSE® 250 Index has outperformed the FTSE® 100 Index.

The Fund's exposure to the consumer services sectors was the main factor that detracted from relative performance against the All Share Index over the review period. The performance of holdings in Compass, RELX, Merlin Entertainment and ITV was disappointing. Despite solid annual results from catering group Compass, the market was discouraged by a relatively cautious trading outlook as management does not expect to see any revenue growth or margin improvements until the second half of the 2018 financial year. More encouragingly however, the company has since upgraded its annual revenue growth forecasts. Media group RELX, formerly known as Reed Elsevier, has sold off most of its business and trade publications in recent years and is focusing on business information and data services. The shares underperformed on concerns about the sustainability of the company's quality status. Our holding in entertainment company, Merlin, detracted following disappointing financial results. The company saw a reduction in visitor numbers to several sites, particularly in London, after terrorist attacks last year and envisaged these trends persisting for the foreseeable future. Concerns over a slowdown in the advertising market weakened broadcaster ITV's share price.

Amongst technology stocks, holdings in Alfa Financial Services and Sage lost value. The former, which supplies software to the asset finance sector, cautioned the weakening dollar will dilute revenue growth in 2018 as the company is reliant on the US market for a substantial proportion of its earnings. Accounting software group Sage underperformed, reporting in February that quarterly revenues were held back by its underperforming French business and significant investment in sales training. However, management maintained full-year earnings guidance and forecast an acceleration in revenue growth.

An underweight position in the oil & gas sector, relative to the All Share Index, also detracted from performance as the energy stocks outperformed the broader market with the oil price rallying to $70/barrel in March.

The main contributory factor came from stock selection in the industrial sector where holdings in BBA Aviation, Ibstock and Ashtead performed well. Flight support group BBA Aviation confirmed that trading performance remains in line with expectations as the autumn hurricane season caused minimal impact across its US operations while the company's acquisition of Landmark Aviation has integrated well. The company reported a rise in pre-tax profits during 2017 with a strong contribution from its aftermarket services division. Ibstock, the UK's largest brick manufacturer, announced the opening of a new domestic plant, which will reduce the company's reliance on imports. The company is well positioned to benefit from the growth of the new-build housing sector. Equipment hire group Ashtead gained ground on expectations of increased demand for its tool fleet after management commented that the onset of the autumn hurricane season in the US had generated significant activity, requiring a major clean up and rebuilding programme.

Amongst consumer stocks, the Fund's holding in Fevertree outperformed. The company is continuing to transform and grow the premium mixer drinks market as a result of its strong product differentiation and continued innovation. We remain very positive about the company's medium term growth potential and anticipate an acceleration in US sales growth as the company starts to directly manage its US distribution network and marketing effort in 2018.

During the review period, the Fund started a position in Phoenix Group with the aim of benefitting from its forthcoming rights issue in its purchase of Standard Life Aberdeen's life insurance book. The Fund also started a position in Smith's Group, the industrial firm who manufactures products ranging from airport security scanners to medical equipment. Despite its downbeat March results, there is optimism about a recovery in the company's performance with an increased focus on profit. The Fund also participated in the rights issue of Cineworld as they purchased Regal, the US cinema chain.

The Fund exited its position in Daily Mail & General Trust over concerns on how focused its corporate strategy was, and its ability to compete in the tough trading environment given the advertising trend towards social media. In addition, the Fund sold down its position in Northgate given reservations about the new more competitive two- to three-year lease space the company was entering into.

OUTLOOK

Ongoing Brexit negotiations and the Bank of England's policy moves are likely to continue to dominate headlines but strong global demand trends, positive corporate earnings momentum and supportive historic and relative valuations should enable UK equities to make progress over the coming months. The Fund manager remains focused on investing in high growth and quality companies capable of delivering strong earnings growth independent of the macro-economic backdrop.

REVIEW

After strong performance from global stock markets last year particularly into the year end, the extended period of low volatility came to an abrupt end in February 2018 and equities sold off globally. There were potentially several factors that impacted sentiment including extended valuation metrics in the US, concern over the speed at which the Federal Reserve will hike interest rates given how robust US economic data has been, and protectionist developments between the US and China. There was also a marked sell-off in bond markets on the back of the notable move higher in inflation expectations as a result of a rise in the oil price and upside surprises on monthly inflation data. Importantly though, there were no major changes in favourable macroeconomic conditions and the outlook for synchronised global growth remains intact.

Whilst UK growth expectations are not being revised upwards, GDP growth of 1.4 per cent in 2017 looks attainable in the context of political uncertainty and ongoing Brexit negotiations. Moreover, sterling has maintained an upward trajectory and against some major currencies is back at or close to pre-referendum levels. This has meant the more domestically exposed FTSE® 250 Index has outperformed the FTSE® 100 Index.

The Fund's holdings in the financials and industrials sectors were the main contributory factors to relative performance against the All Share Index over the review period. Amongst financials, the standout performer was Intermediate Capital, a specialist investor in alternative assets such as real estate and mezzanine capital, a higher risk form of debt. In November, the company announced that it had raised €5.2 billion for its latest debt fund, focusing on the European direct lending market as investment companies have moved into the mid-cap and smaller company lending space previously the preserve of the banking sector.

The company's interim results highlighted record inflows as the popularity of alternative investments continued, particularly amongst institutional investors looking for higher yielding assets.

Another contributor amongst financials was our holding in insurance group Hiscox. The company has absorbed heavy losses incurred at its natural catastrophe-focused Lloyds business while premium growth in its retail businesses has been strong.

In the industrials sector, key contributors were BBA Aviation, Ibstock and Melrose Industries. Flight support group BBA Aviation confirmed that trading performance remains in line with expectations as the recent hurricane season caused minimal impact across its US operations while the company's acquisition of Landmark Aviation has integrated well. The company reported a rise in pre-tax profits during 2017 with a strong contribution from its aftermarket services division. Ibstock, the UK's largest brick manufacturer, announced the opening of a new domestic plant, which will reduce the company's reliance on imports. The company is well positioned to benefit from the growth of the new-build housing sector. Turnaround specialist Melrose Industries secured the acquisition of engineering company GKN, as the long-running takeover battle concluded with a narrow majority of investors holding voting rights backed Melrose's takeover bid.

Amongst technology stocks, the Fund's holding in electronic components group Laird performed well. During March, the company accepted a takeover approach from US buyout group Advent International. Laird also recently announced a marked improvement in operating performance, having recovered from a loss in 2016 to post a pre-tax profit last year. However, accounting software group Sage weakened after reporting in February that quarterly revenues were held back by its underperforming French business and significant investment in sales training. Nevertheless, management maintained full-year earnings guidance and forecast an acceleration in revenue growth.

Exposure to consumer stocks detracted from performance during the review period, with disappointing performance from holdings in Unilever, Compass and RELX. Shares in Anglo-Dutch consumer goods group struggled as consumer staples underperformed the broader UK equity market in response to the sell-off in bond markets, being perceived as an alternative to low yielding government bonds for income oriented investors. In December, Unilever finally agreed the sale of its declining spreads business to US private equity firm KKR. As the period ended, the company announced a restructuring, dividing its business into three parts, foods and refreshment, beauty and personal care, and homecare, while also confirming it would establish a single headquarters in the Netherlands. Despite solid annual results from catering group Compass, the market was discouraged by a relatively cautious trading outlook as management does not expect to see any revenue growth or margin improvements until the second half of the 2018 financial year. More encouragingly, the company has since upgraded its annual revenue growth forecasts. Media group RELX, formerly known as Reed Elsevier, has sold off most of its business and trade publications in recent years and is focusing on business information and data services. The shares underperformed on concerns about the sustainability of the company's quality status.

During the review period, the Fund started a position in HSBC to benefit from the potential for a rising interest rate environment. The Fund also started a position in Smith's Group, the industrial firm which manufactures products ranging from airport security scanners to medical equipment. Despite its downbeat March results, there is optimism about a recovery in the company's performance and focus on profit. The Fund also participated in the rights issue of Cineworld as they purchased Regal, the US cinema chain.

The Fund trimmed its holdings in RELX and Unilever based on position sizing within the Fund overall, and concerns over sentiment in the consumer sector respectively. In addition, the Fund sold down its position in Northgate given reservations about the new two- to three-year lease space the company was entering into. The Fund also trimmed its position in asset management firm, River and Mercantile Group, on valuation grounds.

OUTLOOK

Ongoing Brexit negotiations and the Bank of England's policy moves are likely to continue to dominate headlines but strong global demand trends, positive corporate earnings momentum and supportive historic and relative valuations should enable UK equities to make progress over the coming months. The Fund manager remains focused on investing in high growth and quality companies capable of delivering strong earnings growth independent of the macro-economic backdrop.

FUND MANAGER'S REPORT

On 4 June 2018, share class A of this Fund was closed and merged into share class 1.

PERFORMANCE

Over the six months ended 15 April 2018, the Fund delivered a total return of -0.70 per cent, net of fees, compared with an average total return of -1.56 per cent for its peer group, the Investment Association UK All-Companies sector. The FTSE® All-Share Index, the Fund's benchmark, returned -1.64 per cent.

REVIEW

After strong performance from global stock markets last year particularly into the year end, the extended period of low volatility came to an abrupt end in February 2018 and equities sold off globally. There were potentially a number of factors that impacted sentiment including extended valuation metrics in the US, concern over the speed at which the Federal Reserve will hike interest rates given how robust US economic data has been, and protectionist developments between the US and China. There was also a marked sell-off in bond markets on the back of the notable move higher in inflation expectations as a result of a rise in the oil price and upside surprises on monthly inflation data. Importantly though, there were no major changes in favourable macroeconomic conditions and the outlook for synchronised global growth remains intact.

Whilst UK growth expectations are not being revised upwards, GDP growth of 1.4 per cent in 2017 looks attainable in the context of political uncertainty and ongoing Brexit negotiations. Moreover, sterling has maintained an upward trajectory and against some major currencies is back at or close to pre-referendum levels. This has meant the more domestically exposed FTSE® 250 Index has outperformed the FTSE® 100, which has been beneficial given the Fund's positioning.

Stock selection drove performance more than offsetting the Fund's underweight position in the Oil & Gas sector which performed well with the oil price rising to over $70/barrel over the review period.

Strong performance came from a number of the Fund's largest holdings, including Dechra Pharmaceuticals, Keywords Studios and Fevertree, all of which announced better than expected results. Shares in animal healthcare business, Dechra Pharmaceuticals, responded well to the announced acquisition of two private companies in the Netherlands. The deal brings further scale to their companion animal product business in Europe and a meaningful pipeline of new products in the context of the overall business. Fevertree continues to transform and grow the premium mixer drinks market as a result of its strong product differentiation and continued innovation. The fund manager remains enthused about the company's medium term growth potential and anticipates an acceleration in US sales growth as the company starts to directly manage its US distribution network and marketing effort in 2018.

Norwegian oil exploration and production company, Faroe Petroleum, performed well following a number of successes on its development and appraisal programme and interest from Norwegian listed peer, DNO, which took a material stake in the company at a premium to its undisturbed trading price. Even after the shares' recent strength, the fund manager retains the view the market is undervaluing the company's production growth prospects from its diverse asset portfolio.

Shares in Sanne, a provider of fund and corporate administration services in alternative asset markets, detracted from performance as the market took profits after its exceptional share price performance since IPO, after forecasts for the year ahead were trimmed due to foreign exchange downgrades. We maintain the view that there is a meaningful amount of upside to the company's scale potential and that they are likely to be involved in cross-border global consolidation as and when the market matures. Shares in BCA Marketplace came under pressure with the market interpreting the slowdown in new car retail trends as bad news for the company's future trading performance. As they sell cars on behalf of auto Original Equipment Manufacturers (OEMs), corporates and vehicle buying companies we remain confident their trading performance should be more resilient than that witnessed in the dealer channel, which is heavily exposed to new car retail sales.

The Fund initiated new holdings in Cineworld, Consort Medical and EasyJet in the period, with conviction reinforced by one-on-one meetings with company management. The position in Cineworld was started following the reverse takeover of the second largest US cinema operator, Regal, on the basis the market had become too sceptical that management could enact the turnaround story articulated. We added a holding in Consort Medical in anticipation of positive news flow through 2018 surrounding its auto-injector business and the possibility of being first to market in launching a generic version of asthma drug Advair with their partner Mylan. The fallout from the collapse of EU short-haul rival Monarch has improved the pricing backdrop for EasyJet where there is a high degree of route overlap, which is supportive of our expectation for a rebound in the company's earnings. The holding in entertainment group Merlin was trimmed on the grounds of the company's deteriorating growth outlook, while the holding in medical devices group Smith & Nephew was reduced as we anticipate that increased competitive pressures in wound management are likely to persist.

OUTLOOK

Ongoing Brexit negotiations and the Bank of England's policy moves are likely to continue to dominate headlines but strong global demand trends, positive corporate earnings momentum and supportive historic and relative valuations should enable UK equities to make progress over the coming months. The fund manager remains focused on investing in high growth and quality companies capable of delivering strong earnings growth independent of the macro-economic backdrop.

REVIEW

Despite closing 2017 on a positive note, the UK equity market has faltered in recent months recording three consecutive months of losses. Sterling's strength, with the currency reaching its highest level since the 2016 referendum, surpassing $1.40 at the end of January, has caused a headwind for companies and sectors with high international earnings, notably healthcare and food & beverages. Investors were also unsettled by the latest guidance on monetary policy from the Bank of England, which cautioned that interest rates may need to be increased earlier and faster than previously expected. Technology stocks underperformed, weakened by fallout during March from the data mining scandal that engulfed social networking group Facebook. Specialist software and IT services provider MicroFocus warned revenues for the current financial year would be below market expectations, largely due to issues in integrating the HPE software acquisition. Utilities were also amongst the weakest sectors, as the government introduced draft legislation to provide industry regulator Ofgem with the power to cap default standard variable tariffs charged by domestic energy providers until 2023.

In contrast, energy stocks outperformed the broader market as the oil price rallied to $70/barrel, reflecting geopolitical tensions as US government appointments, most notably the choice of long-term hawk John Bolton as national security adviser, could put the Iran nuclear deal at risk, as well as indications that OPEC producers would continue supply curbs into 2019. Autos also performed well, driven by a hostile takeover bid for component supplier GKN from Melrose Industries, which eventually received shareholder approval. In the media sector, broadcaster Sky was the focus of attention. US group Comcast unveiled a takeover bid valuing the company at over £22 billion, a substantial premium to the offer already tabled by Rupert Murdoch's 21st Century Fox.

OUTLOOK

The UK's prospects over the next few years are deeply coloured by Brexit and the deal that is struck with the EU. The spectre of a "cliff edge" departure from the EU in March 2019 remains a possibility despite the indisputable fact that it is in both parties' interests to reach a compromise. Our central view is that a deal will be reached, but it would be wrong to disregard the downside scenario. The main initial adverse macro-economic consequence of a "no deal" outcome would be the disruption to trade as we revert to World Trade Organisation (WTO) rules and regulations. As the UK economy is currently only growing at an annualised rate of around 1.5 per cent, such a reduction would put the economy dangerously close to stall speed. Overall, for 2018 we expect UK economic growth to remain relatively modest, while inflation should fall meaningfully and interest rates will not need to move much higher at this stage. Looking at the prospects for UK equities, it is significant that the market includes a broad spread of world-leading global companies whose earnings prospects in many cases are largely detached from the domestic economy. A combination of positive global economic data, encouraging earnings momentum and broadly supportive historic and relative valuations should underpin UK equities despite recent market weakness.

FUND PERFORMANCE

Over six months ended 15 April 2018, the Fund delivered a total return of 2.19 per cent (share class 1), net of fees, compared with an average return of 1.91 per cent for its peer group the Investment Association UK Smaller Companies sector. The FTSE® Small Cap ex IT Index, the Fund's benchmark, returned -1.10 per cent.

REVIEW

After strong performance from global stock markets last year particularly into the year end aided by record levels of low volatility the rise in markets came to an abrupt end in February 2018. There were several factors one might point to that impacted sentiment including extended valuation metrics in the US, concern over the speed at which the Federal Reserve will hike interest rates given how robust US economic data has been, and protectionist trade policies between the US and China. There was also a marked sell-off in bond markets on the back of the notable move higher in inflation expectations, as a result of a rise in the oil price and upside surprises on monthly inflation data. 2017 saw synchronised global growth, the resilience of this will be tested in 2018 when rates are likely to rise.

Whilst UK growth expectations are not being revised upwards, GDP growth of 1.4 per cent in 2018 looks attainable despite significant levels of political uncertainty and the ongoing Brexit negotiations. Moreover, sterling has maintained an upward trajectory against the US Dollar although it is still well below pre-referendum levels. On a relative basis this has helped UK smaller companies, which are more domestically exposed, to outperform the FTSE® 100 and the broader FTSE® All Share Index over the review period.

Healthcare was the best performing sector in the Fund during the review period. Strong performance came from the holdings in Abcam and Dechra Pharmaceuticals. Abcam produces and distributes research-grade antibodies for a global client base. The company gave a very positive trading update at the start of 2018, and is continuing to generate double-digit percentage growth in revenues. Abcam announced a license agreement with Roche regarding gaining the rights to hundreds of their products, which was well received by the market and we are enthusiastic about this development. Shares in animal healthcare business, Dechra Pharmaceuticals, responded well to its announced acquisition of two private companies in the Netherlands. The deal brings further scale to their companion animal product business in Europe and a meaningful pipeline of new products in the context of the overall business.

Other holdings that performed well during the review period were Keywords Studios, Fevertree, First Derivatives, Big Yellow Group and Next Fifteen Communications. Keywords Studios offers services to videogame makers, and operates in a market that is expanding at a rapid pace. The company is a beneficiary of the trend towards outsourcing and offers services such as software engineering, audio and localisation services to most of the world's leading games companies. Earnings have consistently exceeded market forecasts, as the company has supplemented organic growth with acquisitions that have enabled it to develop footholds in new markets in Asia, the Americas and Europe and we remain excited about their future.

Fevertree continues to transform and grow the premium mixer drinks market as a result of its strong product differentiation and continued innovation. We remain very positive about the company's medium term growth potential and anticipate an acceleration in US sales growth as the company starts to directly manage its US distribution network and marketing effort in 2018. The company's share price has gone up 2016 per cent since IPO but we remain shareholders because astute management actions have positioned the business incredibly well for the future.

First Derivatives was added to the Fund last May and since then the shares have performed well. The company has announced a raft of developments ranging from working with the Red Bull F1 team to acquiring a Spanish telecommunications business as the management team execute against their strategy of diversifying the use of its 'Kx' software applications away from capital markets. We remain positive on the company's long-term prospects.

Self-storage company Big Yellow reported a strong set of interim results that referenced management's delivery of its occupancy lead growth strategy as being the key determinant of earnings growth. The company raised its occupancy rate target for 2018.

Digital communications company Next Fifteen reported that acquisitions helped to boost revenues in 2017, while excluding Asia organic revenues recovered over the second half of the company's trading year.

Holdings in McBride and Sanne detracted from performance. McBride is Europe's largest manufacturer of white label products and its turnaround strategy has borne fruit by focusing on margins. However, despite being a very small part of the business, the Personal Care and Aerosols division has been persistently difficult to improve and its fortunes worsened at the start of the year. This division is being split in two and is likely to be sold once returned to breakeven. Elsewhere management have taken the move to absorb a significant amount of new volume, capitalising on a competitor's collapse. However, the additional volume coupled with rising raw material and haulage costs led to a profit warning. We believe that the opportunity to take a competitor's business at this scale does not come around every day and appreciate McBride's strategy in contract manufacturing for brands. Consequently we remain supportive of the holding. Shares in Sanne, a provider of fund and corporate administration services in alternative asset markets, weakened as investors took profits after its exceptional share price performance since flotation, after forecasts for the year ahead were trimmed due to foreign exchange downgrades. We maintain the view that there is a meaningful amount of upside to the company's scale potential and that they are likely to be involved in further cross-border global consolidation as and when the market matures. Recent meetings with management have left us reassured on the integration of their acquisitions since IPO.

During the period we started a position in Gocompare. Gocompare was demerged from Esure in November 2016 and is one of the leading price comparison sites in the UK. 2017 was a busy year for the company as they rejected an offer from ZPG and then they acquired My Voucher Codes in December. The company is firmly in the growth phase of its life cycle with recent full year results exhibiting strong operating profit growth and material savings for their customers.

OUTLOOK

Ongoing Brexit negotiations and the Bank of England's policy moves are likely to continue to dominate headlines. However, the fund manager remains focused on investing in high growth and quality UK smaller companies capable of delivering strong earnings growth independent of the macro-economic backdrop.

AVIVA INVESTORS CASH FUND

INVESTMENT OBJECTIVE

To achieve an income combined with a high degree of capital security.

INVESTMENT POLICY

The Fund will invest primarily in short-term cash deposits, near cash and other money market instruments. In addition, the Fund may occasionally invest in transferable securities, units in collective investment schemes, and derivatives and forward transactions in order to achieve its objective.

FUND MANAGER'S REPORT

On 4 June 2018, share class 2 Acc of this Fund was renamed as share class 1 Acc and share class 2 Inc of this Fund was renamed as share class 1 Inc.

PERFORMANCE

Over the six months ended 15 April 2018, the Fund delivered a total return of 0.13 per cent (share class 2), net of fees. The Fund's peer group, the Investment Association's (IA) Money Market sector, posted a net return of 0.09 per cent.

REVIEW

The Fund's return reflected the maintenance of historically low interest rates in the UK. The period did, however, witness the first hike in UK interest rates since July 2007, when in November the Bank of England (BoE) reversed the quarter-point cut it made in the aftermath of the Brexit vote in 2016. This took the base rate back to 0.5%. Over the course of the period, the money markets began to anticipate a further hike in rates as the performance of the UK economy remained resilient and more clarity began to emerge on the terms of Britain's exit from the European Union (EU). The Bank was also mindful of the economy drawing strength from the better-than-expected rate of global growth. However, in April, the prospect of a rate hike in May looked less clear-cut when consumer inflation (CPI) dropped by more than expected to 2.5%. Inflationary pressures had been expected to wane but the sharp fall in CPI from 3.1% in November took the markets by surprise. This caused cash rates to end the period on a weaker note.

We manage the Fund by taking a view on portfolio 'duration', which in broad terms is an expression of the risk we deem appropriate given the outlook for the economy and monetary policy. Long duration equates to a more bullish view, while short duration equates to a cautious view. Over the review period, we shortened duration as yields began to rise, meaning the Fund would be well positioned to take advantage of the increase in base rate. As an additional strategy, we maintained the allocation to floating rate certificates of deposit to protect the Fund from rising yields.

OUTLOOK

UK money market rates will be sensitive to expectations of whether there will be a 'soft' or 'hard' Brexit. The possibility of no trade deal being agreed between the UK government and the EU suggests that the BoE will be obliged to keep its monetary policy loose. In this scenario, we favour staying long duration in the Fund. However, if inflation accelerates and the BoE indicates that interest rates could rise more quickly than anticipated, we are likely to adopt a more cautious short duration position.

Synthetic Risk and Reward Indicator

The Fund has been allocated a risk number based on the historic volatility of its share price. Where insufficient share price information is available, the risk number has been based on the historic volatility of the asset classes appropriate to the Fund.

- This indicator is based on historical data, calculated using European Union rules, and may not be a reliable indication of the future risk profile of the Fund.
- The risk and reward category shown is not guaranteed to remain unchanged and may change over time. The lowest category does not mean 'risk free'.
- Money market investment values are affected changes in interest rates, and the issuer's creditworthiness. If interest rates go up and or an issuer has their credit rating reduced, the value of the Fund's investments may fall, and vice versa. Whilst capital is relatively safe in a building society account, money market investments may fall in value, and you may get less back than the original amount you invested.
- During the period ended 15 October 2017, the indicator changed from category 2 to category 1.
- Further information on the risks applicable to the Fund is detailed in the Fund's Key Investor Information Document, and a full description is set out in the Prospectus, both of which are available on the internet at www.avivainvestors.com or from the ACD on request.

FUND MANAGER'S REPORT

On 4 June 2018, share class A of this Fund was closed and merged into share class 1.

PERFORMANCE

Over the six months ended 15 April 2018, the Fund delivered a total return of -0.07 per cent (share class 1), net of fees. The Fund's peer group, the Investment Association's Sterling Corporate Bond sector, generated a net return of 0.14 per cent.

REVIEW

The Fund posted a flat return over the six months in review. Performance versus the sector was hurt by the Fund having a higher sensitivity to changes in interest rates than many of its peers and a lower exposure to high-yield bonds, which performed well.

In the early part of the period, longer-dated US credits performed solidly on expectations that some issuers would be able to sell bonds on more favourable terms in the event of Congress passing President Trump's tax reform proposals. Here, the Fund benefited from holding communications companies Verizon and AT&T. Holdings in UK companies such as Segro and Gatwick also boosted Fund performance as the sterling market attracted interest from value-seeking overseas investors. Tesco made a useful contribution as it bought back bonds at a premium. However, exposure to the AA detracted after the roadside-assistance company issued lower earnings guidance for next year.

During the period, the Fund was broadly diversified across sectors and the market capitalisation spectrum. The overall positioning was cautious given the Brexit-related uncertainty hanging over the UK economy and the vulnerability of the underlying government bond market to rising inflation and earlier-than-expected hikes in interest rates. As the market rallied early in the period, we increased the cautious stance by selling certain positions as bond valuations had become more expensive. In sector terms, the Fund was overweight in telecoms, a sector which we felt was ripe for consolidation, as well as financials and corporate hybrids. We were underweight consumer cyclical goods, health care, oil & gas and utilities. Although new issuance was relatively light, we participated in a number of new deals, including logistics facilities provider Tritax Big Box.

OUTLOOK

We remain watchful on the outlook for corporate bonds given the vulnerability of the underlying government bond markets to rising interest rates around the world. Although corporate bonds have suffered weaker performance recently, valuations remain relatively expensive as they continue to reflect the likelihood of economic growth improving and default rates staying low. While we expect policy makers to remain cautious as they normalise monetary policies, we are mindful that a surge in inflation could prompt a more vigorous response. Given the numerous uncertainties that currently hang over the global economy, we remain cautiously positioned.

Synthetic Risk and Reward Indicator

The Fund has been allocated a risk number based on the historic volatility of its share price. Where insufficient share price information is available, the risk number has been based on the historic volatility of the asset classes appropriate to the Fund.

- This indicator is based on historical data, calculated using European Union rules, and may not be a reliable indication of the future risk profile of the Fund.
- The risk and reward category shown is not guaranteed to remain unchanged and may change over time. The lowest category does not mean 'risk free'.
- Bond values are affected by changes in interest rates, and the bond issuer's creditworthiness. Bonds that produce a higher level of income usually have a greater risk of default.
- Further information on the risks applicable to the Fund is detailed in the Fund's Key Investor Information Document, and a full description is set out in the Prospectus, both of which are available on the internet at www.avivainvestors.com or from the ACD on request.

FUND MANAGER'S REPORT

On 4 June 2018, share class A of this Fund was closed and merged into share class 1.

PERFORMANCE

Over the six months ended 15 April 2018, the Fund posted a total return of -0.64 per cent (share class 1), net of fees. The Fund's peer group, the Investment Association's (IA) Mixed Investment 20-60% Shares sector, generated a net return of -1.45 per cent.

REVIEW

The Fund posted a negative return over the review period as both corporate bonds and UK equities fell in value. However, it outperformed its peer group thanks in part to its lower exposure to equities (fixed at 35 per cent of the Fund's investments) in what was a negative six months for the UK stock market. In corporate bonds, holdings in UK issuers such as Segro and Gatwick contributed as the sterling market attracted interest from value-seeking overseas investors. Tesco also value as it bought back bonds at a premium. However, exposure to the AA detracted after the roadside-assistance company issued lower earnings guidance for next year. In the equity portion, the Fund's holdings in the financials and industrials sectors were the main contributors to performance. Amongst financials, the standout performer was Intermediate Capital, a specialist investor in mezzanine capital, which is a higher-risk form of debt. The company's interim results highlighted record inflows as the popularity of alternative investments continued. In the industrials sector, key contributors were BBA Aviation, Ibstock and Melrose Industries.

During the period, the corporate bond portion of the Fund was broadly diversified across sectors and the market capitalisation spectrum. The overall positioning was cautious given the Brexit-related uncertainty hanging over the UK economy and the vulnerability of the underlying government bond market to rising inflation and earlier-than-expected hikes in interest rates. As the market rallied early in the period, we increased the cautious stance by selling certain positions as bond valuations had become more expensive. In the equity portion, we preferred telecoms and technology and avoided mining stocks. In equities, we started a position in HSBC to benefit from the potential for a rising interest rate environment. We also opened a position in Smith's Group, which manufactures products ranging from airport security scanners to medical equipment.

OUTLOOK

We remain watchful on the outlook for corporate bonds given the vulnerability of the underlying government bond markets to rising interest rates around the world. Although corporate bonds have suffered weaker performance recently, their prices remain relatively expensive as they continue to reflect the likelihood of economic growth improving and default rates staying low. For UK equities, while ongoing Brexit negotiations and the Bank of England's policy moves are likely to continue to dominate headlines, strong global demand trends, positive corporate earnings momentum and supportive valuations should enable the market to make progress over the coming months. We remain focused on investing in high-quality companies capable of delivering strong earnings growth independent of the macro-economic backdrop.

Synthetic Risk and Reward Indicator

The Fund has been allocated a risk number based on the historic volatility of its share price. Where insufficient share price information is available, the risk number has been based on the historic volatility of the asset classes appropriate to the Fund.

- This indicator is based on historical data, calculated using European Union rules, and may not be a reliable indication of the future risk profile of the Fund.
- The risk and reward category shown is not guaranteed to remain unchanged and may change over time. The lowest category does not mean 'risk free'.
- Bond values are affected by changes in interest rates, and the bond issuer's creditworthiness. Bonds that produce a higher level of income usually have a greater risk of default.
- The value of investments will be affected by changes in exchange rates.
- Further information on the risks applicable to the Fund is detailed in the Fund's Key Investor Information Document, and a full description is set out in the Prospectus, both of which are available on the internet at www.avivainvestors.com or from the ACD on request.

ACCOUNTING POLICIES

The accounting policies applied are consistent with those of the financial statements for the year ended 15 October 2017 and are described in those annual financial statements.

AVIVA INVESTORS HIGH YIELD BOND FUND

INVESTMENT OBJECTIVE

To maximise total return while generating a high level of income through investment in a diversified portfolio of fixed interest securities.

INVESTMENT POLICY

Diversified investment in high yield bonds but also other fixed income assets, such as government bonds and investment grade corporates.

The Fund may invest in any of the following financial instruments in order to achieve its investment objective: transferable securities, money market instruments, units in collective investment schemes, deposits and derivatives and forward transactions.

Note: at least 80 per cent of assets will either be in sterling or currency hedged back to sterling.

FUND MANAGER'S REPORT

PERFORMANCE

Over the six months ended 15 April 2018, the Fund posted a total return of -1.14 per cent (share class 1), net of fees. The Fund's peer group, the Investment Association's (IA) Sterling High Yield sector, generated a net return of 0.10 per cent.

REVIEW

The Fund's underperformance of its peer group relates mostly to company-specific factors. Detractors over the period included the AA, after the roadside-assistance company issued lower earnings guidance for next year, and the Japanese conglomerate SoftBank. The exposure to struggling UK clothes retailer New Look also weighed on performance, although the bonds did recoup some of their early losses towards the end of the period as the company cut costs. Among the credits that added value were Italian electricity generator Enel, which performed well after its hybrid bonds were uprated to investment grade, and business-to-business publisher Unity Media, which responded positively to a rise in merger and acquisition speculation in the sector. Performance was also boosted by semi-conductor maker Western Digital, which bought back bonds from the market at a premium as it sought to refinance at a lower rate.

Over the course of the review period we held a neutral position in terms of the portfolio's sensitivity to changes in interest rates as the performance of the global economy improved.

We favoured corporate hybrid bonds (a mixture of debt and equity) that had been issued by good-quality utility and telecoms companies. While the Fund was overweight in both these sectors, it was underweight in basic industries and had no exposure to companies linked to commodities. We also tended to avoid European banks as issuance in the high-yield sector is dominated by the more volatile Eurozone periphery countries. We purchased a number of new issues, including Belgian cable operator Telenet, Israeli pharmaceutical maker Teva and US fragrance and beauty product company Coty.

OUTLOOK

We remain watchful on the outlook for corporate bonds given the vulnerability of the underlying government bond markets to rising interest rates around the world. Although corporate bonds have suffered weaker performance recently, valuations remain relatively expensive as they continue to reflect the likelihood of economic growth improving and default rates staying low. While we expect policy makers to remain cautious as they normalise monetary policies, we are mindful that a surge in inflation could prompt a more vigorous response. Given the numerous uncertainties that currently hang over the global economy, we remain cautiously positioned.

Synthetic Risk and Reward Indicator

The Fund has been allocated a risk number based on the historic volatility of its share price. Where insufficient share price information is available, the risk number has been based on the historic volatility of the asset classes appropriate to the Fund.

- This indicator is based on historical data, calculated using European Union rules, and may not be a reliable indication of the future risk profile of the Fund.
- The risk and reward category shown is not guaranteed to remain unchanged and may change over time. The lowest category does not mean 'risk free'.
- Bond values are affected by changes in interest rates, and the bond issuer's creditworthiness. Bonds that produce a higher level of income usually have a greater risk of default.
- The value of investments will be affected by changes in exchange rates.
- Further information on the risks applicable to the Fund is detailed in the Fund's Key Investor Information Document, and a full description is set out in the Prospectus, both of which are available on the internet at www.avivainvestors.com or from the ACD on request.

FUND MANAGER'S REPORT

On 4 June 2018, share class 4 of this Fund was closed and merged into share class 1.

PERFORMANCE

Over the six months ended 15 April 2018, the Fund delivered a net return of -0.50 per cent (share class 1). The Fund's peer group, the Investment Association's (IA) Sterling Strategic Bond sector, generated a net return of -0.13 per cent.

In the early part of the period, longer-dated US credits performed solidly on expectations that some issuers would be able to sell bonds on more favourable terms in the event of Congress passing President Trump's tax reform proposals. Here, the Fund benefited from holding communications companies Verizon and AT&T. Holdings in UK companies such as Segro and Gatwick also boosted Fund performance as the sterling market attracted interest from value-seeking overseas investors. Tesco made a useful contribution as it bought back bonds at a premium. However, exposure to the AA detracted after the roadside-assistance company issued lower earnings guidance for next year. In high-yield, the holding in struggling UK clothes retailer New Look weighed on performance.

During the period, the Fund was broadly diversified across sectors and countries. The overall positioning was cautious given the Brexit-related uncertainty hanging over the UK economy and the vulnerability of the underlying government bond market to rising inflation and earlier-than-expected hikes in interest rates. As the market rallied early in the period, we increased the cautious stance by selling certain positions as bond valuations had become more expensive. In sector terms, the Fund was overweight in telecoms, a sector which we felt was ripe for consolidation, as well as financials and corporate hybrids. We were underweight consumer cyclical goods, health care, oil & gas and utilities. Although new issuance was relatively light, we participated in a number of new deals, including logistics facilities provider Tritax Big Box.

OUTLOOK

We remain watchful on the outlook for corporate bonds given the vulnerability of the underlying government bond markets to rising interest rates around the world. Although corporate bonds have suffered weaker performance recently, valuations remain relatively expensive as they continue to reflect the likelihood of economic growth improving and default rates staying low. While we expect policy makers to remain cautious as they normalise monetary policies, we are mindful that a surge in inflation could prompt a more vigorous response. Given the numerous uncertainties that currently hang over the global economy, we remain cautiously positioned.

Synthetic Risk and Reward Indicator

The Fund has been allocated a risk number based on the historic volatility of its share price. Where insufficient share price information is available, the risk number has been based on the historic volatility of the asset classes appropriate to the Fund.

- This indicator is based on historical data, calculated using European Union rules, and may not be a reliable indication of the future risk profile of the Fund.
- The risk and reward category shown is not guaranteed to remain unchanged and may change over time. The lowest category does not mean 'risk free'.
- Bond values are affected by changes in interest rates, and the bond issuer's creditworthiness. Bonds that produce a higher level of income usually have a greater risk of default.
- The value of investments will be affected by changes in exchange rates.
- Further information on the risks applicable to the Fund is detailed in the Fund's Key Investor Information Document, and a full description is set out in the Prospectus, both of which are available on the internet at www.avivainvestors.com or from the ACD on request.

FUND MANAGER'S REPORT

PERFORMANCE

Over the period starting 19 December 2017 (date of launch) to the 15 April 2018, the Fund (share class 2) delivered a total return of -6.59 per cent net of fees. The Fund's benchmark, the MSCI World index, returned -6.09 per cent. The sector average return generated by the Fund's peer group, the Investment Association's Global sector was -4.48 per cent.

REVIEW

Although equity markets closed 2017 on an encouraging note, reflecting a steady improvement in global economic indicators and corporate earnings growth, selling pressures have emerged in recent months. There was a marked rise in market volatility during February and March. Initially, investors focused on US inflationary pressures and the risk that the Federal Reserve may accelerate its monetary tightening programme. Subsequently, the Trump administration's decision to impose tariffs on imported goods, particularly from China, raised concerns over retaliatory measures and a prolonged trade dispute. Mounting regulatory pressures for the technology sector added to volatility in equity markets during the first quarter of 2018.

Although US equities began 2018 strongly, buoyed by ongoing strength in economic data, robust earnings and major tax reforms, the market subsequently fell back as investors factored in the destabilising potential of rising US inflationary pressures and the impact of US-China trade sanctions. UK equities were negatively impacted by sterling's strength, which was driven by growing expectations that base rates could rise faster than previously anticipated.

Despite the rise in equity market volatility, emerging markets outperformed the World Index over the review period.

The Fund posted a negative total return over the review period, driven by two factors. Firstly, global equities weakened and the Fund is managed on a 'fully invested' basis with typically low cash levels. This policy minimises the 'cash drag' on performance as equities generally go up over the long run. The second reason is that sterling rose against most major currencies, appreciating by approximately 6 per cent against the US dollar and by 2 per cent against the euro.

When a UK based investor chooses to own equities – even those listed in London and priced in pounds – they are effectively short sterling. This is because the UK only accounts for a small portion of global output whilst businesses typically earn their revenues and profits in a myriad of currencies from around the world. Take Unilever as an example. A British shareholder has sold pounds to purchase a claim on income streams denominated in euros, US dollars, Brazilian reals, Japanese yen, Chinese renminbi, Indian rupees, and other currencies besides. A fall in the pound makes these cashflows worth more when exchanged back into sterling and pushes the share price up accordingly; a rise in the pound has the opposite effect, even as Unilever sells an unchanged quantity of Dove soap and Cornetto ice creams.

The exception to this would be if an equity investor owned a wholly domestic UK business, but even here the situation is not clear cut. A UK-based exporter of manufactured goods or services finds their cost base becoming less competitive as the pound rises, resulting in downward pressure on profits, whilst a business that imports from overseas such as a clothing retailer sees the reverse.

Whilst we are aware of the underlying currency exposures within the Fund – and particularly the importer vs exporter point – we take the following view. First, currencies matter but less than people think. We observe that on average and over time the relative exchange rates of developed market currencies have generally followed each other within remarkably consistent bands. Our experience is that the return of an equity investment is dominated first and foremost by the ability to reinvest cashflows and sustain a competitive advantage. Currencies have an impact, but it shouldn't be overstated, and it diminishes the further out one extends the investment horizon. Moreover, an ability to adapt to the vagaries of currency depreciations and revaluations is a hallmark of a good, well-managed business like those in which we seek to invest. Second, whilst it is tempting to invest around currency fluctuations, any attempt presupposes a proven ability to do so profitably, a skill which we do not claim to possess. When it comes to second-guessing movements in the major exchange rates, we are agnostics.

OUTLOOK

Inflationary expectations are stirring, particularly in the US. Bond yields drifted upwards during the latter half of 2017 and the rise accelerated earlier this year. Since the worth of any asset is the present value of the cash that it produces in future, interest rates act as financial 'gravity'. All else equal, higher bond yields mean that equities – which represent a claim on a long-dated stream of cashflows – are worth less. All else, however, is not always equal. Rising bond yields are typically associated with faster economic growth and rising corporate profits. The extent to which a positive dynamic of larger future cashflows serves to offset the drag from a higher discount rate depends on the economic sensitivity of a company and the valuation multiple on the stock.

In terms of overall positioning, the Fund is currently tilted towards more classically "defensive" than the average business. Many of our holdings were once bucketed as "bond proxies" such as tobacco, consumer products or professional services, but given their low valuation multiples and the pricing power of the companies we believe that this collection of stocks offers the potential for upside whilst mitigating the downside risk.

AVIVA INVESTORS MANAGED HIGH INCOME FUND

INVESTMENT OBJECTIVE

To provide a high level of investment income.

INVESTMENT POLICY

The Fund may invest in any of the following financial instruments in order to achieve its investment objective: transferable securities, money market instruments, units in collective investment schemes, deposits and derivatives and forward transactions.

FUND MANAGER'S REPORT

PERFORMANCE

Over the six months ended 15 April 2018, the Fund delivered a net return of -1.42 per cent (share class 1). The Fund's peer group, the Investment Association's (IA) Sterling Strategic Bond sector, generated a net return of -0.13 per cent.

In the early part of the period, longer-dated US credits performed solidly on expectations that some issuers would be able to sell bonds on more favourable terms in the event of Congress passing President Trump's tax reform proposals. Here, the Fund benefited from holding communications companies Verizon and AT&T. Holdings in UK companies such as Segro and Gatwick also boosted Fund performance as the sterling market attracted interest from value-seeking overseas investors. Tesco made a useful contribution as it bought back bonds at a premium. However, exposure to the AA detracted after the roadside-assistance company issued lower earnings guidance for next year. In the US high-yield portion of the Fund, value was added by having underweight exposure to underperforming areas of the market such as oil field services, wireline communications and oil exploration & production. However, being overweight in technology companies detracted from performance.

During the period, the Fund was broadly diversified across sectors and the market capitalisation spectrum. The overall positioning was cautious given the Brexit-related uncertainty hanging over the UK economy and the vulnerability of the underlying government bond market to rising inflation and earlier-than-expected hikes in interest rates. As the market rallied early in the period, we increased the cautious stance by selling certain positions as bond valuations had become more expensive. In sector terms, the Fund was overweight in telecoms, a sector which we felt was ripe for consolidation, as well as financials and corporate hybrids. We were underweight consumer cyclical goods, health care, oil & gas and utilities. Although new issuance was relatively light, we participated in a number of new deals, including logistics facilities provider Tritax Big Box. In US high-yield, having noted the weaker performance of higher-quality bonds, we switched some exposure into the BB-rated sector.

OUTLOOK

We remain watchful on the outlook for corporate bonds given the vulnerability of the underlying government bond markets to rising interest rates around the world. Although corporate bonds have suffered weaker performance recently, valuations remain relatively expensive as they continue to reflect the likelihood of economic growth improving and default rates staying low. While we expect policy makers to remain cautious as they normalise monetary policies, we are mindful that a surge in inflation could prompt a more vigorous response. Given the numerous uncertainties that currently hang over the global economy, we remain cautiously positioned.

Synthetic Risk and Reward Indicator

The Fund has been allocated a risk number based on the historic volatility of its share price. Where insufficient share price information is available, the risk number has been based on the historic volatility of the asset classes appropriate to the Fund.

- This indicator is based on historical data, calculated using European Union rules, and may not be a reliable indication of the future risk profile of the Fund.
- The risk and reward category shown is not guaranteed to remain unchanged and may change over time. The lowest category does not mean 'risk free'.
- Bond values are affected by changes in interest rates, and the bond issuer's creditworthiness. Bonds that produce a higher level of income usually have a greater risk of default.
- The value of investments will be affected by changes in exchange rates.
- Further information on the risks applicable to the Fund is detailed in the Fund's Key Investor Information Document, and a full description is set out in the Prospectus, both of which are available on the internet at www.avivainvestors.com or from the ACD on request.

FUND MANAGER'S REPORT

On 4 June 2018, share class R3 Acc of this Fund was renamed as share class 2 Acc and share class R3 Inc of this Fund was renamed as share class 2 Inc.

PERFORMANCE

Over the six months ended 15 April 2018, the Fund posted a net return of -0.30 per cent (share class 1). The Fund's peer group, the Investment Association's (IA) Sterling Corporate Bond sector, generated a net return of 0.14 per cent.

The Fund's underperformance of its peer group relates to its higher sensitivity to changes in interest rates than many of its competitor funds. In the early part of the period, longer-dated US credits performed solidly on expectations that some issuers would be able to sell bonds on more favourable terms in the event of Congress passing President Trump's tax reform proposals. Here, the Fund benefited from holding communications companies Verizon and AT&T. Holdings in UK companies such as Segro and Gatwick also boosted Fund performance as the sterling market attracted interest from value-seeking overseas investors. Tesco made a useful contribution as it bought back bonds at a premium. However, exposure to the AA detracted after the roadside-assistance company issued lower earnings guidance for next year.

During the period, the Fund was broadly diversified across sectors and the market capitalisation spectrum. The overall positioning was cautious given the Brexit-related uncertainty hanging over the UK economy and the vulnerability of the underlying government bond market to rising inflation and earlier-than-expected hikes in interest rates. As the market rallied early in the period, we increased the cautious stance by selling certain positions as bond valuations had become more expensive. In sector terms, the Fund was overweight in telecoms, a sector which we felt was ripe for consolidation, as well as financials and corporate hybrids. We were underweight consumer cyclical goods, health care, oil & gas and utilities. Although new issuance was relatively light, we participated in a number of new deals, including logistics facilities provider Tritax Big Box.

OUTLOOK

We remain watchful on the outlook for corporate bonds given the vulnerability of the underlying government bond markets to rising interest rates around the world. Although corporate bonds have suffered weaker performance recently, valuations remain relatively expensive as they continue to reflect the likelihood of economic growth improving and default rates staying low. While we expect policy makers to remain cautious as they normalise monetary policies, we are mindful that a surge in inflation could prompt a more vigorous response. Given the numerous uncertainties that currently hang over the global economy, we remain cautiously positioned.

Synthetic Risk and Reward Indicator

The Fund has been allocated a risk number based on the historic volatility of its share price. Where insufficient share price information is available, the risk number has been based on the historic volatility of the asset classes appropriate to the Fund.

- This indicator is based on historical data, calculated using European Union rules, and may not be a reliable indication of the future risk profile of the Fund.
- The risk and reward category shown is not guaranteed to remain unchanged and may change over time. The lowest category does not mean 'risk free'.
- Bond values are affected by changes in interest rates, and the bond issuer's creditworthiness. Bonds that produce a higher level of income usually have a greater risk of default.
- The value of investments will be affected by changes in exchange rates.
- Further information on the risks applicable to the Fund is detailed in the Fund's Key Investor Information Document, and a full description is set out in the Prospectus, both of which are available on the internet at www.avivainvestors.com or from the ACD on request.

FUND MANAGER'S REPORT

PERFORMANCE

Over the six months ended 15 April 2018, the Fund posted a net return of -0.90 per cent (share class 1), net of fees. The Fund's peer group, the Investment Association's (IA) Sterling Strategic Bond sector, generated net return of -0.13 per cent.

REVIEW

The Fund posted a negative return in the six months under review as bond markets finally began to reflect the prospect of central bank monetary support being wound down. The Fund profited from its exposure to the banks and insurance sector on hopes that rising interest rates would boost profitability. Elsewhere, Italian electricity generator Enel performed well after its hybrid bonds were uprated to investment grade. Holdings in UK companies such as Segro and Gatwick boosted performance as the sterling market attracted interest from value-seeking overseas investors. With expectations for US inflation rising on the back of the passing of President Trump's tax reforms, the Fund's exposure to US Treasury Inflation-Linked Securities also added value. On the negative side, the holding in struggling UK clothes retailer New Look weighed on performance, although some early losses were recouped later in the period as the company cut costs.

The Fund was positioned cautiously given the number of political and monetary policy uncertainties hanging over the global economy. At the global level, we favoured US and UK-based bonds as we felt that yields would be more attractive than in the Eurozone, where central bank policy continued to depress payouts. With new technologies and uneven demand disrupting the commodity markets, we opted to take no exposure to energy-related corporate bonds. At the sector level, we were overweight in telecoms and underweight in basic industries. In terms of our government bond exposure, we were underweight in US treasuries but held exposure to US index-linked bonds to cushion against the potential for rising inflation. With central bank policies having distorted the market to the degree that investors were not being rewarded for taking interest rate or credit risk, we were able to achieve a competitive yield of around 3 per cent by holding certain shorter-dated, higher-quality corporate bonds.

OUTLOOK

We continue to hold a negative view on bond markets. It has been notable how weak the performance of bonds has been this year, at a time when equities have sold off. Over the past decade, almost all periods of falling investor risk appetite have been met with a sharp rally in government bond markets. But with strong global growth, tightening labour markets, steadily rising inflation and the removal of supportive central bank monetary policies (such as bond purchasing programmes and interest rate cuts), bond prices have continue to struggle. We think that bonds will remain challenged through 2018, with potential monetary policy changes later in the year from the European Central Bank and the Bank of Japan representing further risks to the market. We will remain cautiously positioned within the Fund.

Synthetic Risk and Reward Indicator

The Fund has been allocated a risk number based on the historic volatility of its share price. Where insufficient share price information is available, the risk number has been based on the historic volatility of the asset classes appropriate to the Fund.

- This indicator is based on historical data, calculated using European Union rules, and may not be a reliable indication of the future risk profile of the Fund.
- The risk and reward category shown is not guaranteed to remain unchanged and may change over time. The lowest category does not mean 'risk free'.
- Bond values are affected by changes in interest rates, and the bond issuer's creditworthiness. Bonds that produce a higher level of income usually have a greater risk of default.
- The value of investments will be affected by changes in exchange rates.
- Where a third party appointed to manage transactions or ensure the safe keeping of assets fails in their duty a loss may occur.
- Financial derivatives may only require a low initial deposit relative to the asset exposure, a relatively small price movement in the underlying asset may result in substantial losses to the Fund.
- Further information on the risks applicable to the Fund is detailed in the Fund's Key Investor Information Document, and a full description is set out in the Prospectus, both of which are available on the internet at www.avivainvestors.com or from the ACD on request.

FUND MANAGER'S REPORT

On 4 June 2018, share class A of this Fund was closed and merged into share class 1.

FUND PERFORMANCE

Over the six months ended 15 April 2018, the Fund delivered a total return of -2.94 per cent (share class 1), net of fees, compared to an average return of -4.77 per cent for its peer group the Investment Association Europe excluding UK sector. The Fund's benchmark, the FTSE® AW Europe ex UK Index, returned -5.57 per cent.

REVIEW

Returns from European equities were disappointing, underperforming broader global stock markets over the review period. In recent months, political concerns have resurfaced with an inconclusive result to the Italian elections in March, where anti-establishment parties' hostile to the EU performed well. Germany finally formed a new government, ending a period of protracted negotiations since September's elections. After strong performance from stock markets last year particularly into the year end, the extended period of low volatility ended abruptly in February 2018 and equities sold off globally. There were potentially several factors that impacted sentiment including extended valuation metrics in the US, concern over the speed at which the Federal Reserve will hike interest rates given how robust US economic data has been, and protectionist developments between the US and China. There was also a marked sell-off in bond markets on the back of the notable move higher in inflation expectations as a result of a rise in the oil price and upside surprises on monthly inflation data. Significantly, the oil & gas sector was the only area to gain ground over the review period. However, the economic background remained positive for equity markets, the outlook for synchronised global growth remains intact while the Eurozone area grew at its fastest rate in a decade over 2017. In addition, recent earnings announcements have overall been positive.

Over a disappointing period for European equity markets, the Fund nevertheless outperformed both the benchmark index and its peer group. The main contributory factor was stock selection in the healthcare sector, where Belgian biotechnology group Ablynx performed well as the company received an unsolicited takeover approach from Danish group Novo Nordisk. Subsequently, Ablynx announced that it had agreed terms of a takeover by Sanofi for €45 per share. This price was more than double Ablynx's undisturbed share price prior to the lower offer from Novo Nordisk. The Fund also retained significant exposure to small cap stocks in the healthcare sector, and amongst these Oxford Biomedica announced a collaboration and Licence Agreement with Bioverativ, which was a key piece of positive news both for the business and the share price.

The Fund retained a substantial overweight position in technology stocks, relative to the benchmark index. Here, holdings in ASML, Gemalto and Temenos were the key contributors. Dutch semiconductor supplier ASML capped off an impressive 2017 with strong fourth quarter earnings and upgraded profit guidance. ASML is playing an essential part in the continued rapid growth of the highly specialised semiconductor industry and remains a key holding for the Fund as the company works towards delivering and potentially exceeding its 2020 financial targets. Digital company Gemalto was approached by Atos about a potential takeover, causing the shares to appreciate on the news. Subsequently, aerospace & defence group Thales announced that it had agreed terms of a merger with Gemalto at a higher price than the Atos offer causing the share price to increase further. Temenos, a software supplier to the financial services sectors, upgraded its profit guidance and announced a new deal with Openbank, the digital banking arm of Santander.

Amongst industrials, the Fund's holding in Thales rose sharply on strong 2017 results. The fund managers believe the recent takeover of Gemalto should further strengthen the acceleration of the company's digital strategy. Elsewhere, in the financials sector Deutsche Boerse, Amundi and BankInter performed well. Fourth quarter results from the German stock exchange operator exceeded forecasts, while Spanish group BankInter delivered a strong fourth quarter results exceeding analyst's expectations in several areas helping the shares to perform strongly despite a high valuation. Asset manager Amundi delivered very good inflows for the third quarter and continued to perform well following its acquisition of Pioneer. Subsequently, in February Amundi announced a new medium-term plan with financial forecasts well below market expectations, which saw the share price give up some of the earlier gains. The fund managers met the company's management after this announcement and were reassured that the business model remains intact. We also believe there was a lot of conservatism in the company's financial forecasts.

Amongst consumer stocks holdings in Ontex and Glanbia detracted. Belgian baby product supplier Ontex reported disappointing performance from its Brazilian Hypermarcas acquisition, which had a negative impact on the company's profitability despite solid results overall for 2017. Shares in Irish food producer Glanbia weakened, despite the company reporting annual earnings growth in line with previous guidance, as management cautioned that higher dairy prices and US dollar exposure will affect trading performance over the first half of 2018.

We have transitioned the portfolio significantly, more than in previous periods. Excluding the takeovers mentioned, we have exited our positions in several companies: Ontex and Intertrust due to our concerns about the management teams, Sodexo due to concerns over their US operations and Novozymes on valuation grounds. In addition, we reduced our stake in Temenos due to its stretched valuation. Temenos' share price fell following news about their attempt to acquire Fidessa, another software solution provider to financial institutions. The takeover failed, which we view as a positive for our investment case and the share price bounced accordingly.

On the purchasing side, we increased our exposure to banks through new investments in Banco Santander and CaixaBank, and higher weightings in BNP Paribas and Intesa Sanpaolo. We believe the European economy continues to recover and a potential increase in European interest rates provides upside for share prices in the sector. Recent market weakness provided a good opportunity to implement these trades. Elsewhere we added to our positions in Pandora, Air Liquide, Amadeus and Ryanair. We also participated in the IPO of Siemens Healthineers, and initiated a new position in Telefonica.

OUTLOOK

Sentiment across the Eurozone has slipped slightly from recent peaks, but remains upbeat and indicates another year of above-trend growth for the region. With inflation still subdued and only expected to rise slowly back towards target, the European Central Bank is likely to withdraw its monetary stimulus measures very gradually. Asset purchases should halt this year, while modest policy rate increases are more likely to come next year rather than this. We expect robust earnings growth to continue, supported by the positive economic background. In terms of valuations, European equities still trade at a discount to their US counterparts. With low interest rates, we also expect merger and acquisition activity to remain healthy in 2018, underpinning share prices in European markets.

FUND MANAGER'S REPORT

PERFORMANCE

Over the six months ended 15 April 2018, the Fund delivered a total return of -3.07 per cent (share class 1), net of fees. The Fund's benchmark, the FTSE® World ex UK index, returned -2.63 per cent. The sector average return generated by the Fund's peer group, the Investment Association's Global (equity) sector was -2.22 per cent.

REVIEW

International equity markets ended the review period marginally lower. Although markets closed 2017 on a strong note, reflecting a steady improvement in global economic indicators and corporate earnings growth, selling pressures have emerged in recent months. Market volatility has risen markedly, particularly as trade tensions between the US and China have escalated. Over the period as a whole, technology stocks performed well in anticipation of an upturn in the semiconductor industry, while earnings announcements from the major technology companies, particularly in the US, have also been encouraging. More recently however, investors have favoured sectors perceived as less sensitive to the economic cycle, notably utilities.

US equities recorded a new all-time high in January, boosted by Congressional approval for the Trump administration's tax reforms which included a substantial cut in corporation tax. However, there was a marked rise in volatility during February and March. Initially, investors focused on inflationary pressures and the risk that the Federal Reserve may accelerate monetary tightening. Subsequently, the Trump administration's decision to impose tariffs on imported goods, particularly from China, raised concerns over retaliatory measures and a prolonged trade dispute.

European equities have underperformed broader global stock markets over the period. In recent months, political concerns have resurfaced with an inconclusive result to the Italian elections, where anti-establishment parties' hostile to the European Union performed well. Germany finally formed a new government, ending a period of protracted negotiations since September's elections. However, the economic background remained positive for equity markets, with the Eurozone area growing at its fastest rate in a decade over 2017, while recent earnings announcements have highlighted improving momentum.

Asia Pacific equities produced healthy gains over the period. Notwithstanding concerns that US interest rate rises could follow a steeper-than-expected path, confidence that improving global economic growth will boost corporate earnings helped Asia Pacific markets to outperform global equities. Returns from Japanese equities were bolstered by growing conviction in the sustainability of the domestic economic recovery and optimism over exports.

OUTLOOK

Our central outlook remains one of strong global growth, leading to modestly stronger inflation pressures. Against this background, it seems likely that G10 central banks will be biased towards tighter policy. One consequence of this view that we have highlighted previously is that fundamentals should reassert themselves as the primary driver of valuations and that volatility is likely to edge higher. The European Central Bank is expected to halt asset purchases this year and the Bank of Japan will potentially modify its yield curve control policy, either in the second half of this year or in 2019. Concurrently, the Federal Reserve is expected to raise US interest rates three more times this year – following a hike in the March quarter – and a further four times in 2019. Notwithstanding the timing and pace of central bank policy changes, it is clear that we are now progressing along the road of policy normalisation and leaving behind a decade of almost zero interest rates and plentiful liquidity. Unsurprisingly, it is taking time for global markets to adjust. While these adjustments do not always progress smoothly, fundamentally we believe they should be perceived as a positive development on the road to long-term financial stability. The robust global growth backdrop, which is expected to persist in the medium term, is finally helping markets stand on their own two feet again.

Synthetic Risk and Reward Indicator

The Fund has been allocated a risk number based on the historic volatility of its share price. Where insufficient share price information is available, the risk number has been based on the historic volatility of the asset classes appropriate to the Fund.

- This indicator is based on historical data, calculated using European Union rules, and may not be a reliable indication of the future risk profile of the Fund.
- The risk and reward category shown is not guaranteed to remain unchanged and may change over time. The lowest category does not mean 'risk free'.
- The value of investments will be affected by changes in exchange rates.
- Further information on the risks applicable to the Fund is detailed in the Fund's Key Investor Information Document, and a full description is set out in the Prospectus, both of which are available on the internet at www.avivainvestors.com or from the ACD on request.

ACCOUNTING POLICIES

The accounting policies applied are consistent with those of the financial statements for the year ended 15 October 2017 and are described in those annual financial statements.

AVIVA INVESTORS GLOBAL EQUITY INCOME FUND

INVESTMENT OBJECTIVE

To provide an annualised income yield at least one and a quarter times that of the annual income yield obtainable on the MSCI World Index (GBP), with the potential for capital growth. Income on the Fund will be paid quarterly. The income aim is a 12 month rolling target and is before the deduction of charges and after the deduction of tax for a UK basic rate income taxpayer. For the purposes of measuring the income aim the annual income yield of the Index will also be calculated on a 12 month rolling basis.

INVESTMENT POLICY

The Fund aims to achieve the investment objective by investing principally in global equities judged to offer above average dividend yields with prospects of dividend growth and the potential for long term capital growth. The Fund may also invest in other transferable securities, collective investment schemes, money market instruments, deposits, cash, near cash, derivatives and forward transactions.

FUND MANAGER'S REPORT

PERFORMANCE

Over the six months ended 15 April 2018, the Fund (share class 1) delivered a total return of -2.86 per cent net of fees. The Fund's benchmark, the MSCI World index, returned -2.74 per cent. The sector average return generated by the Fund's peer group, the Investment Association's Global Equity Income sector was -4.43 per cent.

REVIEW

Equity markets ended the review period marginally lower. Although markets closed 2017 on a strong note, reflecting a steady improvement in global economic indicators and corporate earnings growth, selling pressures have emerged in recent months. There was a marked rise in market volatility during February and March. Initially, investors focused on US inflationary pressures and the risk that the Federal Reserve may accelerate its monetary tightening programme. Subsequently, the Trump administration's decision to impose tariffs on imported goods, particularly from China, raised concerns over retaliatory measures and a prolonged trade dispute. Over the period as a whole, technology stocks performed well in anticipation of an upturn in the semiconductor industry, while earnings announcements from the major technology companies, particularly in the US, have also been encouraging. More recently however, investors have favoured sectors perceived as less sensitive to the economic cycle, notably utilities.

Stock selection in both the industrials and technology sectors was the main contributory factor to Fund performance against the benchmark index over the review period. The Fund's holding in aircraft manufacturer Boeing continued to deliver impressive returns, buoyed by strong demand for their planes, in particular the single-aisle 737 MAX series. With air passenger traffic numbers remaining healthy and good visibility on the order backlog, Boeing remains one of the most compelling businesses globally in terms of free cash flow generation. This had led to an attractive dividend growth story which we believe will continue.

In the technology sector, Microsoft remains one of Fund's highest conviction holdings. The stock has performed exceptionally well as the company continues its transition away from traditional PCs and into cloud computing. Revenues for the Azure cloud business, which allows clients to run applications in their data centres, nearly doubled in the first quarter of the year. In addition Microsoft is gaining further traction for its Office 365 suite of products, which provides the company with an attractive recurring revenue stream.

On the downside, exposure to healthcare companies detracted from performance. Swiss pharmaceutical company Roche underperformed, as investors grapple with their legacy oncology drugs such as Herceptin and Avastin facing increasing pressure from biosimilars. Whilst the development of its Tecentriq drug has given Roche a foothold in the fast-growing immuno-oncology market, US peer Merck is currently leading the charge in this area. With pressure on legacy drugs and less visibility on the growth pipeline, we decided to exit the position during this period.

Global fast-food restaurant operator McDonald's also was a detractor. Although the company has generated an impressive three-year turnaround under CEO Steve Easterbrook, momentum slowed in the latter quarter of last year. However, we saw a pick-up again in the first quarter in 2018 which should help re-assure the market that the company remains very much on track, and we retain our conviction in their long-term strategy adding to our holding on share price weakness.

In terms of portfolio activity elsewhere, we initiated a new position in Applied Materials. This US-listed company is a global leader in providing materials engineering solutions for the vast majority of semiconductor chips and displays worldwide. We believe the company is extremely well-positioned to capture the growing demand for semiconductors from automation in various industries, as well as in other areas such as data centres. Applied Materials recently announced it was doubling its dividend, which we see as a clear indication of management's belief in the sustainability of the business model.

During the review period, we reduced exposure to consumer staples, exiting our holding in Ahold Delhaize in the process. Whilst we view Ahold as one of the best run supermarket retailers globally, there is increased competition in the US, both from incumbent players such as Walmart and also new entrants such as Amazon (via their acquisition of Whole Foods). With revenue growth hard to come by and profit margins set to be squeezed further from rising wage costs and the need to invest in price reductions/online channels, we view food retailing as a sector to avoid.

OUTLOOK

Our central outlook remains one of strong global growth, leading to modestly stronger inflation pressures. Against this background, it seems likely that G10 central banks will be biased towards tighter policy. One consequence of this view that we have highlighted previously is that fundamentals should reassert themselves as the primary driver of valuations and that volatility is likely to edge higher. The European Central Bank is expected to halt asset purchases this year and the Bank of Japan will potentially modify its yield curve control policy, either in the second half of this year or in 2019. Concurrently, the Federal Reserve is expected to raise US interest rates three more times this year – following a hike in the March quarter – and a further four times in 2019. Notwithstanding the timing and pace of central bank policy changes, it is clear that we are now progressing along the road of policy normalisation and leaving behind a decade of almost zero interest rates and plentiful liquidity. Unsurprisingly, it is taking time for global markets to adjust. While these adjustments do not always progress smoothly, fundamentally we believe they should be perceived as a positive development on the road to long-term financial stability. The robust global growth backdrop, which is expected to persist in the medium term, is finally helping markets to stand on their own two feet again.

ACCOUNTING POLICIES

The accounting policies applied are consistent with those of the financial statements for the year ended 15 October 2017 and are described in those annual financial statements.

AVIVA INVESTORS MULTI-STRATEGY TARGET RETURN FUND

INVESTMENT OBJECTIVE

To deliver a positive return over rolling three year periods regardless of the prevailing stock market environment. The Fund aims to generate a positive return, on average 5% per annum above the Bank of England Base Rate before the deduction of charges, over rolling three year periods. In seeking to target this level of return the Fund also aims to manage volatility to a target of less than half the volatility of global equities, measured over the same rolling three year periods. These aims, however, are not guaranteed and it may not always be possible to achieve positive returns or to achieve the target level of volatility over rolling three year periods, or over any period of investment. Consequently, investors' capital is at risk.

INVESTMENT POLICY

In aiming to achieve the investment objective the Fund may invest globally in any of the following financial instruments: transferable securities, money market instruments, fixed interest securities, units in collective investment schemes, derivatives, forwards and deposits.

The Fund will make significant use of derivative instruments including: futures, options, swaps, swaptions and forwards. The Fund may take both long and synthetic short positions and derivative usage may include but is not limited to derivatives on interest rates, inflation rates, bonds, credit, equity, financial indices, volatility, dividend payments and currencies. Derivatives usage may be for the purposes of hedging, efficient portfolio management, or investment purposes and may be exchange traded or traded off exchange through market counterparties. The use of derivative instruments as part of the investment policy will mean that the Fund may, from time to time, have substantial holdings in liquid assets including deposits and money market instruments.

FUND MANAGER'S REPORT

On 4 June 2018, share class 6 of this Fund was renamed as share class 1, share class 8 of this Fund was renamed as share class 3, share class 3 of this Fund was renamed as share class 5 and share class 5 of this Fund was renamed as share class 9.

PERFORMANCE

Over the six months ended 15 April 2018, the Fund posted a total return of 0.77 per cent (share class 6), net of fees. The Fund's objective is to generate a return of 5 per cent above the Bank of England base interest rate over rolling three year periods.

REVIEW

Market return strategies were the biggest positive contributors at fund level over the period. In the equity space, our favouring of emerging market and European equities led the gains while within bonds our recently added exposure to Brazilian government bonds also benefited performance as concerns around easing domestic inflationary pressures allowed the central bank to continue to cut interest rates.

Opportunistic strategies also delivered solid returns, mainly driven by our strategies which aim to benefit from higher inflation expectations and the yields of longer-dated bonds rising relative to shorter-dated bonds in the US. Part of this positive performance was offset, however, by positions anticipating the US dollar to strengthen against the Japanese yen and the Saudi riyal. The US currency remained surprisingly weak, despite healthy domestic growth and interest rate rises.

On the downside, several risk-reducing strategies detracted. These include our now-closed position favouring the broad European stock market against the Europe 600 Automobiles & Parts index. Strategies designed to benefit from US equities being less volatile than more economy-sensitive markets such as Europe, Japan and China also weighed on performance as the US market suffered the brunt of the fallout from worries about high import tariffs and possible trade wars.

When constructing the Fund we maintain an investment horizon of three years. That means we continually monitor both existing and potential new positions to assess the expected performance over that horizon.

Over the review period we continued to align the Fund with our core views which reflect a world of rising interest rates, continuing solid economic growth and a normalisation of inflation.

To benefit from a rising interest rate environment, we reinforced our negative stance on government bond markets by increasing the size of our position anticipating weakness in long-dated UK bonds and introducing a similar strategy in Europe.

We remain above consensus on global economic growth prospects. As a result, we increased the size of our long European mid-cap equity position while introducing a position anticipating rising inflation in Europe, which will complement a similar existing position on US inflation.

Overall, we believe that developed market corporate bonds have become less attractive and that emerging market currencies and bonds offer better opportunities. To reflect this, we reduced our US high-yield bond exposure in favour of higher-yielding opportunities such as Brazilian and Indian government bonds.

Synthetic Risk and Reward Indicator

The Fund has been allocated a risk number based on the higher of the historic volatility of its share price, the historic volatility of its current asset classes or its intended maximum risk levels.

- This indicator is based on historical data, calculated using European Union rules, and may not be a reliable indication of the future risk profile of the Fund.
- The risk and reward category shown is not guaranteed to remain unchanged and may change over time. The lowest category does not mean 'risk free'.
- Bond values are affected by changes in interest rates, and the bond issuer's creditworthiness. Bonds that produce a higher level of income usually have a greater risk of default.
- The value of investments will be affected by changes in exchange rates.
- Where a third party appointed to manage transactions or ensure the safe keeping of assets fails in their duty a loss may occur.
- Financial derivatives may only require a low initial deposit relative to the asset exposure, a relatively small price movement in the underlying asset may result in substantial losses to the Fund.
- Developing market investments can be less easy to buy and sell, and their values may be influenced by the economic and political risks of the countries of issue.
- Further information on the risks applicable to the Fund is detailed in the Fund's Key Investor Information Document, and a full description is set out in the Prospectus, both of which are available on the internet at www.avivainvestors.com or from the ACD on request.
